Notes:

Like Robert and Mary (McWherter) Jamison (see #24200), Garrett Jamison and his family probably came out of North Carolina about the same time. There is a need to look at the Pennsylvania branches of the Jamisons for it is to them that perhaps these two families are descended. The McWherters {McWhorters) had left their native Pennsylvania and spread south into Albemarle county, Virginia before migrating to North Carolina. The Caldwell's had done the same settling into Virginia before heading further south. The Garrett name can be found in both families as well leading to some speculation and a need for more research. Alexander Caldwell may have died in Rutherford co., NC.

The 1800 KY Census lists a Garrard Jimmerson of Barren co., KY. The 1820 KY census shows (males) 3-3-1-3-0-1 (females) 2-0-0-0-1-0-0-7-0-0.

Jamison bought land in Barren co., Ky on February 11, 1811 from Samuel Scott for 118 acres for £60 on Lick branch(Fallen Timbers) of the Skagg River. This parcel was later sold to Joseph Willis August 1, 1816 for $500.00. In 1817, the family pulled up stakes and crossed the Ohio River into Washington co., IN settling on section 9 about 8 miles north of Salem.

Alexander Caldwell was from Rutherford co., NC. They migrated to Barren co., KY where he probably died, for in that county Garrett Jamison appoints a lawyer, James Smith of Rutherford co., NC, in 1805 to obtain his wife's inheritance of her father's estate. It is stated that Caldwell was a former residence of North Carolina.

Administrator of Garrett Jamison's estate was his son, William Jamison. With William dead by 1842, the administration of William's estate was appointed to his brother James Jamison of Washington co., IN in 1842. This might mean that William was unable to handle his affairs after 1838 since the estate was not resolved until ordered on August 16, 1842. His mother received a half share while the other brothers and sisters received $36.85 each. Robert Jamison, his brother, was provided a parcel of land<sup>(1)</sup> from this administration which he in turn resold September 8, 1843 to James Jamison of Washington co., IN, his brother. William Jamison had purchased an 80 acre lot in Johnson co., in 1825, but appears to have remained in the home of his parents in Washington county.

Notes:

Raised on the Old Jamison family farm in Washington co., IN he was a prominent citizen of this region of Indiana. He was educated and besides farming taught in the local school system. In 1878, he was elected Auditor for the county and moved to Salem from Madison.

"WILLIAM G. JAMISON, Auditor of Washington County, is a son of Joseph and Margaret (Gilchrist) Jamison, and is a native of the county in which he now resides. Joseph Jamison was born in Kentucky, January 29, 1811, a son of Garrett Jamison, who removed with his family to the Hoosier State in 1817, and where he and wife both died. Joseph and wife were the parents of William G. and Polly Ann (now Mrs. M. L. Ribelin), and they are yet living on the farm entered by Joseph's father. William G. Jamison was raised on the old homestead, but unlike his father in one respect, he secured a good practical education. He farmed and taught school for a number of years, and in 1860, was united in marriage with Margery Davis, by whom he became the father of five children named: Samuel J., now a cell guard at the State Prison; John W., a merchant at Rich Hill, Mo.; Jerry M.; Melvedea and Winfield, deceased. The mother died September 17, 1880, a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. On Christmas, 1882, Mr. Jamison married his present wife, who was Mary E. Smith. Until his election as County Auditor in 1878, he resided in Monroe Township, and for fourteen years served as trustee. After one term as Auditor, he was re-elected and is now serving his second term. As a Democrat in politics he has been out-spoken and unswerving in the principles advocated by his party, and his official record as well as his private life is without a blemish. He belongs to the I. O. O. F., the Masonic and the K. of P. fraternities."[3]
